Why New Zealand?
Investment in R&D by New Zealand’s top 22 Agri-Tech companies is up 6.5% year on year, outlining a focus on innovation for the sector. Larger Agri-Tech and primary industry companies are increasingly working with start-ups to collaborate and solve problems together, which is producing a growing number of new commercial entities.

The New Zealand Government launched its Industry Transformation Plan (ITP). The ITP sets out an approach to the long-term transformation of the Agri-Tech sector to make it more productive and sustainable as part of a zero-carbon economy through support to accelerate growth, attract investment, increase commercialisation and global opportunities, and address data interoperability.

Additional investment of $339 million to support the Agriculture sector to develop and disseminate new technologies in accelerating greenhouse gas mitigations was announced in May 2022.

On 1st July 2022, the UK and New Zealand Prime Ministers signed an agreement around enhanced R&D and innovation collaborations between both markets.
