Focus Industries / Sectors

This initiative is particularly relevant for businesses that focus on delivering sustainability solutions for the Foundation Industries sector in metals, glass, paper, cements, ceramics and chemicals, to enable energy and resource efficiency.

These may be achieved through:

- Enabling technologies - digital solutions, sensors and controls, heat recovery systems, value added processes for waste streams
- New business models
- New and more efficient production processes
- New supply chain models

Why India?

India's Foundation Industries are seeing growing demand for products due to the growing population, expanding market, and large-scale public-sector investments.

India's Foundation Industries face similar sustainability challenges to their UK counterparts with high dependence on fossil fuels and virgin raw materials and are looking for similar solutions. Following the agreement of a 2030 Roadmap for Bilateral Relationship (with climate cooperation a key pillar) and the ongoing discussions of a Free Trade Agreement, Innovate UK has run a series of successful engagement activities with India including a lab-to-lab collaboration programme and the Global Expert Mission.

UKRI is working with the Department for Science and Technology in India on a bilateral funding opportunity in the near future.

The benefits of being involved with this in market programme include visits with well-developed innovation communities and ecosystems in India to accelerate the timelines on achieving more sustainable materials production to achieve net zero.

Benefits:

- Explore opportunities with Foundation Industries in India
- Gain a better understanding of the challenges and opportunities of doing business in India
- Find potential innovation partners to develop your network and business in the UK and India
- Improve your company value proposition to Indian partners
